Publication Frequency

The JSeD is published biannually in April and October, consist of 7 articles each issue, and available in the printed and online version (open access). The publisher of the JseD is Badan Penerbitan Universitas Widyagama Malang (UWG Press). The JSeD receives articles of empirical research and literature reviews. Editors can revise the paper without changing the substance and content after the review process. The articles sent by the author must be an original script and is not being considered for publication by other journal or publishers.

Originality and Plagiarism

The authors should ensure that they have written entirely original works, and if the authors have used the work and/or words of others that this has been appropriately cited or quoted. Plagiarism takes many forms, from 'passing off' another's paper as the author's own paper, to copying or paraphrasing substantial parts of another's paper (without attribution), to claiming results from research conducted by others. Plagiarism in all its forms constitutes unethical publishing behavior and is unacceptable.

The JSeD Editor applies the plagiarism provisions carefully. Every sentence and word in the manuscript is examined in close detail, by excluding references or methods (parts that are often very similar to what have been published in other papers) about 15 percent is acceptable. Some sentences that are definitions (for example the definition of innate immunity) are of course used repeatedly, and plagiarism in those sentences is difficult to avoid but is generally accepted. Plagiarism screening will be conducted by JSeD's editor using Turnitin.

Ethical guidelines for Author

The author ensures that the manuscript, in whole or in part, does not meet any violation of academic ethics, plagiarism, or other fraudulence. The manuscript must satisfy the aspect of originality, objectivity, detail and no false data. The author must show honesty and openness to ensure that the manuscript meets the originality, including (based on Elsevier policies and COPE's Best Practice Guidelines for Journal Editors):

1. Authors should present original research accurately of account of the work performed as well as an objective discussion of its significance. Original data should be represented accurately in the paper. A paper should contain sufficient detail and references to permit others to replicate the work. "Fraudulent or knowingly inaccurate statements constitute unethical behavior and are unacceptable". Authors of reports of original research should present an accurate account of the work performed as well as an objective discussion of its significance.

2. The author may be asked to provide the raw data in connection with a paper for editorial review, and should be prepared to provide public access to such data, if practicable, and should in any event be prepared to retain such data for a reasonable time after publication.
3. The authors should ensure that they have written entirely original works, and if the authors have used the work and/or words of others that this has been appropriately cited or quoted. Plagiarism takes many forms, from 'passing off' another's paper as the author's own paper, to copying or paraphrasing substantial parts of another's paper (without attribution), to claiming results from research conducted by others. Plagiarism in all its forms constitutes unethical publishing behavior and is unacceptable.
4. An author should not publish manuscripts describing the same research in more than one journal or publication. Submitting the same manuscript to more than one journal concurrently constitutes unethical publishing behavior and is unacceptable. In general, an author should not submit for consideration in another journal a previously published paper. Publication of some kinds of articles (eg. guidelines, translations) in more than one journal is sometimes justifiable, provided certain conditions are met. The authors and editors of the journals concerned must agree to the secondary publication, which must reflect the same data and interpretation of the primary document. The primary reference must be cited in the secondary publication
5. Proper acknowledgment of the work of others must always be given. Authors should cite publications that have been influential in the reported work. Information obtained privately, as in conversation, correspondence, or discussion with third parties, must not be used or reported without explicit, written permission from the source. Information obtained in the course of confidential services, such as refereeing manuscripts or grant applications, must not be used without the explicit written permission of the author of the work involved in these services.
6. Authorship should be limited to those who have made a significant contribution to the conception, design, execution, or interpretation of the reported study. All those who have made significant contributions should be listed as co-authors (so its mean that manuscript at least have author and co-author). Where there are others who have participated in certain substantive aspects of the research project, they should be acknowledged or listed as contributors. The corresponding author should ensure that all appropriate co-authors and no inappropriate co-authors are included on the paper and that all co-authors have seen and approved the final version of the paper and have agreed to its submission for publication.
7. All authors should disclose in their manuscript any financial or other substantive conflicts of interest that might be construed to influence the results or interpretation of their manuscript. All sources of financial support for the project should be disclosed. Examples of potential conflicts of interest that should be disclosed include employment, consultancies, stock ownership, honoraria, paid expert testimony, patent applications/registrations, and grants or other funding. Potential conflicts of interest should be disclosed at the earliest stage possible.
8. When an author discovers a significant error or inaccuracy in his/her own published work, it is the author's obligation to promptly notify the journal editor or publisher and cooperate with the editor to retract or correct the paper. If the editor or the publisher learns from a third party that a published work contains a significant error, it is the obligation of the author to promptly retract or correct the paper or provide evidence to the editor of the correctness of the original paper.

Peer Review Process

Editor in Chief will assign the manuscript to a corresponding section editor for further handling. The section editor will request at least two scientists to review the manuscript. All manuscripts are checked by qualified peer review and the authors are subject to blind peer review whose identities will remain anonymous. Based on the comments from the reviewer, Section Editor, and Editor in Chief will decide on the manuscript whether accepted, revised or returned to the author.

Manuscripts declared eligible to be sent to a team of technical editors for editing and publishing. A script that requires revision is returned to the author, to complete the manuscript. The manuscript is considered not qualified returned to the author. Each stage of the review process informed to the author. Review process further can be accessed in the website

Articles Writing Format

The editors receive the manuscript in the form of a research result or review/literature study. The format meets the rules as follows:

1. The manuscript is written in English, using academic or scientific grammar. All the terms in the script refer to international rules of writing and avoid the use of local terms.
2. The composition of empirical research includes Abstract, Introduction, Research Methods, Results and Discussion, Conclusions and Suggestions, Acknowledgments, and References. The composition of the review or literature study can be adjusted and still contains Abstract, Introduction, Conclusions and Suggestions, Acknowledgments, and References.
3. Writing format can be found in the author guidelines. The length of manuscripts ranges from 6 to 8 pages, including Table, Figures or References. The number of words in the whole manuscript ranges from 4000 to 8000 words, not including Tables and Figures. The manuscript is typed at one side of white paper of A4 size, in a single column, 1.5 space line, 11 point Tahoma font and should be given page numbers. Margins on all four sides are 2.5 cm.
4. After the review process ends, and the manuscript is considered eligible for publication, the editor will convert the author's manuscript format into the journal template.

Articles Writing Rules

1. Sentence writing must be complete grammatically, containing at least subject, predicate, and object or description.
2. In the contents of the script, one paragraph contains a complete idea, consisting of at least three sentences
3. Specific and local terms should be synchronized in international languages, and typed in italic font.

Article Processing and Submission Charges Policy

The JSeD has article processing charges as mentioned in the author guidelines. Author whose work is accepted for publication is subjected to pay IDR 500 thousand or USD 35 per printed article. Meanwhile, JSeD does not apply any submission charge
